

Washington. The purpose of the project is to establish an economic base for the Swinomish Indian Tribe, meet regional demands for boat moorage, and restore historic intertidal habitat conditions. The proposed development is situated along the western shore of the Swinomish Channel, immediately south of State Route 20. The 239.8 acre project site is comprised of three elements: (1) the marina basin (57.8 acres); (2) the wetland mitigation site (62.8 acres); and (3) the upland commercial site (119.2 acres).

The project involves the excavation of approximately 1,800,000 cubic yards of silty sandy material from existing agricultural fields and from 4.9 acres of palustrine wetlands. The excavated material will be disposed on site and used to develop the upland commercial site. The project will include the dredging of 4.92 acres and filling of 4.67 acres of palustrine wetland. Mitigation will include the creation of 22.2 acres of new intertidal wetland and the enhancement, by reintroducing tidal conditions, of another 40.6 acres.

This document is supplemental to both a Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) prepared in 1987, and a supplement to the 1987 DEIS, prepared in 1992 (SDEIS). These two previous documents examined a preferred alternative of developing a marina within a tidal flat on tribal land, a second alternative to develop a marina on the site described in the 1996 document, and a third, no action alternative. The conclusion reached in the 1992 SDEIS was to pursue as "preferred" the second alternative, and abandon the plan to develop the tidal flat as described in the original, 1987 DEIS. The net effect of the change in alternatives will produce approximately 62.8 acres of restored wetland, tidal flat and inter-tidal habitat.
